SAID TO CONTAIN is the contract-term used by shipping companies to accept containers for transport without verifying their contents. SAID TO CONTAIN: is also the title of a performance project initiated by Laura Kalauz, Maja Leo and Bojan Djordjev in 2013 in collaboration with Neue Dringlichkeit. With the intent of piercing the opaque shell of global capitalism, the artist collective looks at how the production, consumption and flow of goods shape our way of being, thinking and living.
